MOOSE PLAN FULL CO. TICKET

Will Exact Pledge From Every County Candidate to Support New Party

HELD MEETING SATURDAY

Appoint Committee to Draft a Platform Embodying Many Plans Well Known to Politicians

There will be a full Bull Moose ticket in the field at the spring election for township and city offices including that of police magistrate, in addition to which there will be a full ticket in the field at the next county election and at all elections held in Waukegan in the future. This was decided upon at a meeting of the Progressive committee held in the office of Attorney Homer Cooke late Saturday afternoon. A committee headed by Commissioner E. V. Orvis was appointed with instructions to prepare a platform pledging all the nominees to support its principles. The platform will be drawn up in the near future and will be adopted by the county organization of the Progressive party.

This platform will include, it is said, a plank pledging all town auditors to vote for an audit of the commissioners of highways, town collectors, assessors and justices of the peace, also pledging all to vote to gratify the test suits heretofore started against a former town collector and the incumbent of any office in which a shortage or over-draft may be found; all justices will be pledged to make a quarterly or monthly report to the county superintendent of schools and city clerk, to write all criminal and all city cases into their dockets forthwith so that an annual audit can be had.

Another plank will demand the appointment of a board of review consisting of experts rather than of political influence; a board which will fearlessly adjust the assessments on property which should be raised and lower them on small dwellings. The Progressive committee maintains that the present system is not satisfactory.

Still another plank will pledge all officials who are holding town or county offices to turn over interest on funds held by them or placed in a bank, between the time the same are received and the dates of settlement; already it is claimed by Progressive leaders, several have announced themselves as candidates for both local and county offices and have signified an intention to pledge themselves to all Progressive principles.

One fact of interest is that it is announced that none of the men who have taken a lead in the local fight will be candidates for any office at the spring or next county election, but new men or incumbents who will endorse the platform finally prepared, who will enter the new party and renounce their old party, will be encouraged to run as Bull Mooseers.

According to a decision reached at the meeting on Saturday, township assessors will be pledged to receive $10 a day with a maximum of $1,000 for all work, and town collectors will be pledged to accept a maximum of $1500 and do all collecting. Progressives claim that these offices have been worth $2,000 and upwards in the past, or from one to two thousand dollars above that allowed by law.

The announcement that the Progressives intend to put a ticket in the field at the next county election does not come as a surprise to many as the result of the recent election in which the strength of the Progressive party in Lake county manifested itself, caused many Progressives to regret that a county ticket was not placed in the field. However, the drawing up of the county platform was practically unlooked for and the result will be watched with interest.

STRANGER ATTACKS GIRL

Makes His Escape in the Darkness and Cannot be Found

A considerably commotion was stirred up in our usually quiet village Wednesday evening and had it not been for a timely interference, it is impossible to say how serious an aspect the affair might have assumed.

About seven o'clock George Hockney who has been to the Charles Thorn home after some milk was returning home and as he turned from Main street onto Park avenue he heard a child crying. Hurrying on he soon reached the driveway at the G. D. Thayer property there he saw a man and a child. With the thought in his mind that perhaps the child had been frightened by suddenly meeting a stranger in the dark he approached, whereupon the fellow turned and running across the street, he disappeared in the darkness.

Stepping up to the child he saw that it was little Genevieve Willie, about eight years of age, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Willie, who reside farther down the street. He then took the frightened child home where she told that the stranger had grabbed hold of her and endeavored to stuff a handkerchief into her mouth.

Mr. Hockney and Mr. Willie then went up town and made an effort to locate the fellow. Seeing someone whom they thought might be the guilty party they spent sometime in questioning and trying to entrap him, he was however cleared when G. R. Olcott, who had walked up the street with a stranger, who had turned onto Park avenue at about the time Mr. Hockney came along, appeared and said that the suspected one was not the party they sought.

In the meantime the guilty one had ample time to make a get away and he evidently improved his opportunity, as no trace of him was found.

LAKE COUNTY NOW HAS A DEER PARK

Ernest White and wife have just returned from Somers, Montana, where they have been living for the last few years and will now make their home on the White farm at Millburn. Mr. White's parents will spend the winter in the south.

It is an interesting fact that Mr. White brought home with him two deer as pets. So far as known they are the only deer in Lake county. It was necessary for Mr. White to get a special permit from the state game warden of Montana before they could be removed from that state. They were sent by express. Both of them are very young and were placed in captivity shortly after they were born so that they are almost as gentle as domestic animals and will eat out of one's hand.

Mr. White has erected a ten foot wire fence around a portion of the farm and has made a deer park for them. After a while he intends to enlarge it. The deer will run wild all winter, their only shelter being a shed in the inclosure. Already many people have been to see the deer and Mr. White allows all who wish to see them.

A New Anesthetic

A new anesthetic which will prevent pain after an operation has recently been discovered. It consists of a solution of quinin and urea of hydrochlorid, and before the surgeon begins to operate, it is injected round the affected region. The discoverer, Dr. F. B. Forbes-Ross of London, says that after a patient has recovered from the effects of the general anesthetic, the solution gives entire freedom from pain, and that it promotes rapid healing. He believes that it will prove valuable in accident cases, since it will stop the pain in crushed and fractured limbs, and will frequently avert fatal shocks. Injection of the new compound is not followed by intense pain, such as the administration of cocaine and of suprarenal extract often causes. If after thorough tests, the new anesthetic proves to be effective and safe, it will be of great benefit to mankind.

An Armored Aeroplane

For use in war, a German builder has made a new type of monoplane, the body of which is completely enclosed in armored steel, to protect the occupants from rifle bullets. Except for that, the new flying-machine closely resembles the ordinary monoplane, but it can be taken apart and put together more quickly, and it is therefore more convenient for field operations. It is driven by a 100 horse-power motor.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS SUICIDE

Well Dressed Stranger Blew Out His Brains in Sight of Many People

FIND LETTER TO A GIRL

Will be Opened and Read at Inquest Which May Shed Light on Stranger Who Killed Himself at Libertyville

Considerable mystery surrounds the suicide of a well dressed stranger apparently 25 or 30 years old on the street in Libertyville at 12:15 Wednesday afternoon. A number of pedestrians saw the stranger raise a revolver to his temple and fire the shot. Dr. Taylor was summoned immediately but he found that death had been instantaneous.

The stranger spent some time on the streets of Libertyville but no one seems to know where he came from. He secured a room at the Libertyville hotel Tuesday night and registered as E. A. Dawson. He was next seen walking along in the vicinity of the Macaroni factory. As he arrived in front of the factory he stopped and reached into his hip pocket. Without hesitation he raised the run to his head and pulled the trigger. It was accomplished so quickly that pedestrians who had marked the fine appearance he presented, were unable to prevent him from performing the act.

That possibly Dawson shot himself while despondent over some love affair is indicated by a sealed letter to a young woman that was found in his pocket. It was addressed to Miss Irene McFarland, Terre Haute, Ind. The stamp was affixed and it looked as if he had just got ready to mail or intended that it should be found in his pocket and then mailed. He may have hesitated to mail it for fear that afternoon he would not have the courage to take his own life.

Coroner Taylor has the letter in his possession and will open and read it at the inquest. It is thought that this may be the means of shedding much light on the mystery.

Only one dollar in money was found in the dead man's pockets and this may have had something to do with his taking his life, as he appeared to be a man who had always had plenty of money. His clothing was tailored and of the very latest and most expensive material. In fact he was dressed in the height of fashion. Apparently he had no business to transact in Libertyville as no one can be found who had any dealings with him. The mystery is the deepest the city has had in a long time.

BEET GROWERS OBJECT TO PRESENT CONDITIONS

The farmers in this vicinity who this year contracted to raise beets for the Janesville Sugar Beet Company, are becoming dissatisfied with conditions as they now exist, and their inability to secure cars in which to ship their product. As the case now stands, the farmer as he gathers his beets has to put them in piles, and then go to the extra work of covering them and handling them over a second time when the cars arrive. The general opinion seems to be that the company lacks store room and is putting the inconvenience upon the farmer.

A farmer's meeting was held Wednesday afternoon at which time Albert Tiffany and Clayton Wertz were selected as delegates to go to Janesville and confer with the company in an endeavor to better the situation.

Overconfidence.

"Your opponent says he can win in a walk," said the campaigner. "Well," replied Senator Sorghum, "let us encourage that idea. If we can persuade him to hold himself down to a walk, maybe I can get up a burst of speed that will beat him."

FLAG SAVED MAN IN ZION RIOT

Woman Standing Over Unconscious Man Waves Flag and Defies Invaders

THREE HURT IN THE MELEE

Another Outbreak Has Come Up in the Zion City Religious Crusade at the Cook Factory

Rioting again broke out in Zion City Monday evening at 5:30 o'clock at the daily prayer meeting of the Voliva crusaders held near the Cook factory in accordance with the plans started by the Voliva people months ago when the Cooks located in the old printing plant established by Dowie.

Heads were smashed, two persons were rendered unconscious and it is declared one life might have been endangered but for the fact that a woman carrying a United States flag held it over a man who had been knocked unconscious, insisting that the presence of that flag gave him protection that none dared step over.

Here are some of the conditions that were found after the anti-Voliva people had made their attack on the men and women who had been praying.

D. B. Schumaker was found to be unconscious, having received a severe beating on the head.

Elder Harwood had been knocked down and was in a semi-conscious state.

Mrs. Farrell had been knocked down and tramped upon although she was not seriously hurt.

The Volivates charged that among the young men who helped lead the attack on the crusaders were these: One of the Fabry boys, Henry Vogel, Dan Williams and a lad named Berrings.

The Volivates were considering the advisability of swearing out warrants for arrests of the above and other persons.

The crusaders had gone to hold their daily prayer meeting and the invaders began to hoot them and finally descended on them and wrested banners, flags, etc., from their hands. Naturally fists began to fly during the melee and when the smoke cleared away it was found the injured were the above named.

Mrs. Brister, wife of Dr. Brister, the dentist, was the one who had carried the American flag. She saw Schumaker prone on the ground and declares that men were kicking him and he was in danger for his life. She at once made way towards him and placing her foot on his body waved the American flag above her head and warned the invaders not to attack a man protected by that flag.

It seem to have the desired effect for nobody tried to take the flag from her and none tried to get at Schumaker while she stood there with the flag as a protection.

Blasting With Water

Carl Meis Herrner, a German mining official, has devised a method of blasting coal by means of water instead of powder that may greatly diminish the frequency of mining disasters. According to the Journal of the American Medical Association, the apparatus consists of a long nozzle that fits exactly into the hole bored by the miners for the insertion of powder. The injection of a few quarts of water drives out the gas in the coal, and then the injection of a little more water cracks and breaks the coal, so that a blow from the pick brings it down. The new method is extensively used in Germany, and several mine owners in this country and in Canada are said to have adopted it with success.

Millburn Insurance Assessment.

The losses of the Millburn Mutual Insurance Co., having amounted to $4,176.80 the directors have levied an assessment for 1912 of one dollar and twenty-five cents, on each one thousand dollars insurance. This assessment will be due and called for by H. H. Grimm (Treasurer or his agents) in thirty days.

GIRL HAS HAND BLOWN OFF

Little Elizabeth O'Connor of Highwood Meets With Serious Accident

Elizabeth the 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard O'Connor of Highwood had her right hand practically blown off by a shot gun Saturday afternoon when she was playing with Elmer Brownley, aged 11, who accidentally pulled the trigger of a loaded shot gun.

The child is now in Augusta hospital, Chicago, where she was hurried after the shooting and it is hoped her hand will be saved although the chances are not very good.

The children were playing in the shed of the Brownley home and managed to get hold of the loaded gun. The boy had his hand on the trigger and the girl happened to place her hand over the end of the barrel and just at that time the boy pulled the trigger. The full charge went into the girl's hand and the alarm was carried to relatives who after having first aid applied to the injury, hurried her to the city for expert care.

It is not known whether the children did not know the gun was loaded or not. The boy, because of his age, hardly realizes the extent of the accident but relatives of the victim feel it was most fortunate in its termination because, if she did not happen to hold her hand in the particular position she did, the charge might have penetrated her body and ended her life.

GLADYS EVANS SEVERELY BURNED LAST SATURDAY

Last Saturday Miss Gladys Evans, fifteen years of age, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Evans of Trevor, came very near being burned to death, and as it is, is suffering from a number of very severe burns scattered over her limbs and about her waist and also on her hands and arms.

Mrs. Evans whose birthday it was had gone to Chicago and Gladys who was doing the housework was preparing to surprise her mother upon her return with a birthday cake.

She had cracked some hickory nuts to put in the cake and after picking out the meats walked to the cook stove and removing the lid attempted to empty the shucks from her apron in the stove. Some how her apron caught afire and immediately her dress was also ablaze. Running to the door she screamed and then throwing herself upon the ground she began to roll. The screams of herself and her little sister soon brought Mr. Evans who was at the barn and with his aid the flames were extinguished, but not before the girl had been severely burned. A doctor was at once called to dress the injury and his opinion is that although the burns cover a large surface and are extremely painful, there is no need for alarm as to her recovery, and at the present writing she is getting along very nicely.

The Balkan Situation

On October 17, Turkey made a formal declaration of war against Serbia and Bulgaria, and Serbia, Bulgaria and Greece declared war against Turkey. Montenegro had made its declaration on October 8th, and began hostilities at once. Before the war began, Turkey tried to detach Greece from the Balkan alliance by offering to restore Crete to her, but the Greeks rejected the offer. On October 21st, a large Bulgarian army was within a few miles of Adrianople, preparing for battle. The governor advised all those who could to leave the city, and warned those who remained that unless they husbanded their food supplies they would be liable to suffer from hunger in case of a long siege.

The Highest Dam

The United States Reclamation Service has begun work on the highest dam in the world, at Arrow rock, Idaho. It will stretch across a narrow canon of Boise River, 20 miles above the city of Boise, and will be 351 feet high. That is perhaps 23 feet higher than the great Shoshone Dam in Wyoming and 71 feet higher than the Roosevelt Dam in Arizona. It will be 1,000 feet long and 25 feet wide at the top, over which will run a roadway protected by a wall on each side. The dam will hold back sufficient water to irrigate 250,000 acres of desert land. To build it will require the services of 1,000 men for five or six years.

PENSION FOR TELEPHONE EMPLOYEES

Sick Benefit and Life Insurance Effective January 1 to all Dependents

$10,000,000 FUND SET ASIDE

Announcement Made by Heads of Company by Which 175,000 Employees are to be Protected

A fund of $10,000,000 for pensions sick benefits and life insurance will be available on January 1, for the 175,000 employees of the Bell system and associated interests, and their families and dependents, amounting altogether to more than a quarter of a million dollars.

This $10,000,000 fund will be made good from year to year by annual appropriations by the American Telephone and Telegraph company and associated companies, which include the Chicago Telephone company and the Western Union Telegraph company and the Western Electric company.

The plan for the distribution of this fund has been characterized as the most liberal, comprehensive and ideal ever inaugurated. President T. N. Vail has provided combined benefits for superannuations, sickness, accident and death for an industrial army more than twice as large as the standing army of the United States.

This provision is made entirely at the expense of the various companies interested, without contributions of any kind from employees. The application of these varied benefits will be strictly democratic and will be for the benefit of all employees of every rank. The plan will provide for free change of employment from one company to another, with full credit for combined terms of service.

The Bell system and associated interests provide employment for about 175,000 people; of this number 130,000 are employees of the Bell Telephone system. The terms by which provision is made by the needs of age, illness, accidents and death, may be summarized as follows:

Male employees who have reached the age of 60 years and who have been 20 years or more in service, may retire on pensions. They may be retired at option of company when they have reached 55 and have been 25 years in service. The pension age of female employees is in each case five years younger than that of males. Any employee who has been 30 years in service, regardless of age, may be pensioned on approval of the president.

The amount of the pension is automatically based on the years of service and the amount of pay and will be one percent of the average annual pay for 10 years, multiplied by the number of years of service. Therefore a man who has been 30 years in service would get 30 per cent of the average salary which he had been receiving during his last 10 years of service. No pension will be less than $20 a month.

In the case of accidents occurring in and due to performance of work for the company, the employee will receive for total disability, full pay for 13 weeks and half pay for remainder of disability up to six years.

Employees disabled by sickness or accident outside regular service of duty after 10 years in service, will receive full pay for 13 weeks and half pay for 39 weeks; if from five to ten years in service, full pay for 13 weeks and half pay for 13 weeks; if from two to five years in service, full pay for four weeks and half pay for nine weeks. In case of employees who have not been two years in service, heads of departments will be permitted the same discretion as heretofore, in continuing pay during temporary illness.

In case of death resulting from accident in and due to performance of work for the company, an insurance amounting to three years pay, will be paid to the dependent of employee, maximum payment being $5,000.

In case of death resulting from sickness or from accident outside the business, payment will be one year's pay for employees who have been 10 years

14 DIE IN WRECK

NINETY-TWO HURT WHEN FREIGHT CRASHES INTO EXCURSION TRAIN.

PASSENGER COACHES BURNED

Tragedy Occurs on Yazoo & Mississippi Valley Railroad Twenty-Six Miles From New Orleans—Victims All Southerners.

New Orleans, Nov. 13.—Fourteen or more persons were killed, 42 severely injured and 50 slightly hurt in a wreck on the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley railroad Monday when a freight train crashed into an excursion passenger train bound from New Orleans to Woodville, Miss.

Five of the coaches of the passenger train were burned and many of the wreck victims are believed to have been cremated. Of the fourteen bodies that had been removed, nine were negroes and five whites. The majority of the injured are whites. Practically all were from Louisiana and Mississippi.

The wreck occurred near Montz, La., 27 miles north of New Orleans. A train carrying many of the injured and a number of the dead arrived in New Orleans at 8:15 a. m. The more seriously injured were placed in the charity hospital.

The ill-fated excursion train left New Orleans at 11 o'clock at night, carrying several hundred people who had passed Sunday in New Orleans. It slowed down on approaching a sharp curve near Montz soon after midnight, and the freight train crashed into the rear coaches. Many of the victims were so badly mangled as to make identification impossible.

The scene at the Union station when the relief train bearing the dead and injured arrived in New Orleans was one of confusion. Practically every ambulance in the city had been summoned to take the injured to hospitals and police patrol wagons were used to move many of the dead to undertaking establishments. The rear coach of the excursion train was demolished. Practically every occupant of this car was either killed or severely injured. One of the badly wounded passengers said two women and several small children in the rear coach were killed.

BRITISH CABINET TO STICK

Defeated on Home Rule Bill Ministry Declines to Quit in Face of International Crisis.

London, Nov. 13.—Following its defeat on the amendment to the home rule bill in the house of commons, the government decided Monday that it would set aside precedent and not resign. The government will, therefore, move at an early day for the recommitment of the bill and expects to be victorious, inasmuch as the ballot was a snap vote and was taken on Monday, when many of the supporters of the government had not returned to town from the week ends.

The course of the government finds many supporters, the opinion being almost unanimous that the cabinet was not actuated in its declining to resign solely by the defeat, but on account of the situation in the Balkan states.

The jeopardizing of Ireland's chances of winning self government came, when an amendment hostile to the measure was put through by a vote of 228 to 206. The question on which the vote was taken was an amendment to the home rule bill offered by Sir Frederick Banbury, a Conservative, providing that, in case Ireland proved unable to support herself by local taxation and had to call on the imperial government for assistance, the amount be limited to $12,500,000.

Premier Asquith then said that this amount was too small and that $30,000,000 might be needed.

Poor Spelling as a Lure.

The critical eye of a conscientious orthographer was attracted by the sign above a Third Avenue luncheon, and he went in to set the proprietor right. "Yes," said the luncheon man, "I know 'sandwiches' is wrong, but you see that sign attracts a lot of 'smart Alecks' into the store who want to teach me how to spell and after they come they usually stop long enough to order something. What'll yours be?"—New York Tribune.

Poetic Justice in France.
The following is a case of poetic justice as meted out in France:

A well-known Parisian architect was sitting in his office when he heard a knock at the door. As he wished to be alone, he took no notice of the knock but went on with his work. A few minutes later he heard a key moving in the lock. Not doubting that his visitor was a burglar, the architect armed himself with a revolver and quietly hid behind some curtains. Presently the thief entered and proceeded to rifle the place. Then suddenly he started and grew pale. In a mirror he had seen a revolver leveled at his head from behind the curtains.

"Open the window," ordered the architect, and shout "Police!"

The burglar had no alternative but to obey, and so summoned the officer by whom he was to be arrested.

Fulfillment.
He (in a restaurant with his best girl)—You don't know how happy you have made me by saying "Yes," darling. It will be my dearest wish to make earth a paradise for you and to fulfill your wishes before you utter them. Waitress, bring a portion of cheese for the young lady.—Fulgens Blatter.

Her Ready Refuge.
When a woman is cornered, and doesn't know what to say she makes a noise like a laugh.

And Borrowing Impossible.
Life is short, art is long, opportunity fugitive, experimenting dangerous, reasoning difficult.—Hippocrates.

Run a Walking Stick Farm.
Of the many curious farms that have been established in our peaceful countryside, surely a walking-stick farm is the most curious, relates London Answers.

As a matter of fact, however, there is at least one such establishment, a flourishing concern, to be found in the depths of Surrey. Instead of the corn fields, pasture land and root-crops usually expected on a farm, the walking-stick acres present the appearance of long, neat rows of tiny sapling trees, some four years old, others younger.

Quite a forest of walking sticks may naturally be produced in four years, but the handle occasions some delay. To obtain a right-angled handle, the growth is pegged down along the ground and from this the sapling shoots vertically upwards.

Conveniences in New House.
Where a new house is under consideration these practical suggestions for convenience and comfort may be embodied: Smooth mouldings and plain finishings in woodwork to avoid lodgment for dust; curves instead of angles where walls and ceiling and walls and floor join, also curved corners in rooms; the ironing board hinged to the wall, with drop support; a built-in cupboard for mops, brooms and carpet sweeper; electric lights in cupboards; secret drawers for silver or other valuables; built-in bookcases, sideboards and window seats, with every possible empty recess used for drawer space.

Determined to Be in Style.
A customer in a butcher's shop stood gazing at some small alligators in an aquarium. Having turned the matter over in his mind, the customer approached the butcher and exclaimed, "I suppose a body might as well be dead as out of style. Gimme a couple of pounds of alligator."

Market for Sharks' Liver Oil.
It has been proposed to start in Malaysia a small export trade in shark's liver oil. This oil is refined in Europe and sold as cod liver oil. In October the ocean sharks come into the lagoon, between the barrier reef and the atolls, to pair. At this time they can be speared in catching them. There are several species of these sharks and they ordinarily run from seven to fifteen feet in length. The girth of an ordinary shark is the same as its length, and an eleven-foot shark would be eleven feet around the body. The liver of a shark of this size gives about five gallons of oil. The oil brings $73 a ton. The sharks are found in pairs and the harpooners try to kill the male first, in which case they are able to also spear the female, as it does not desert its mate.

New York Allmomy Club.
The Allmomy club in New York, a name adopted by a coterie of men who are undergoing imprisonment there for default in payment of allowances to wives from whom they have been separated, held a banquet in jail on Christmas day. Twelve sat down to a good feast, two of them having come back for the occasion, after recovering their liberty only two days before. The popular song, "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," was sung during every toast, and "Our Unfortunate Successors" was received hilariously.

Oldest Newspaper.
The "Ching Pao," which is the official gazette of Peking, and has just celebrated its thousandth anniversary, is the oldest newspaper in the world. Ever since its inception, a copy of each issue has been carefully preserved in the archives of the Peking palace. Accuracy has always been the keynote of his paper, and, in order to maintain its high standard, several journalists on its staff in the past paid the penalty of mistakes with their lives. Demissal, and, at the worst, imprisonment, is the punishment meted out at present.

Proud of Pet Swan.
Captain Peacock, of Los Angeles, whose name might indicate a sympathy with the feathered race, has a pet goose of the handsome variety known as "Russian swan." The bird flew upon his land three years ago, and has become domesticated to such an extent that he follows the captain like a dog and searches in his pockets for popcorn or crackers. When the pockets are empty the "swan" looks disconsolate, like a dog who has received a harsh word when he expected a pleasant one.

Remembered by Their Deeds.
Who thinks of Milton as blind or of Beethoven as deaf or of Darwin as an invalid? What they accomplished was so great that their personal infirmities are for the moment forgotten in the sense of their achievements.—The Christian Register.

Possible Explanation.
In a Connecticut hamlet where old-fashioned regulations are in force, the night-watchman has a dog that chases the young children off the streets at eight o'clock. This must be the dog that put the "cur" in curfew.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Round Robin.
Derived from two French words meaning round and ribbon, a form of signing a petition of grievance by arranging the names in a circular form and was first used by certain officers of the French government.

Seldom.
People who talk merely for the purpose of attracting attention to themselves seldom get the kind of attention that is worth anything.

SYNOPSIS.

Richard Lightnut, an American with an affected English accent, receives a present from a friend in China. The present proves to be a pair of pajamas. A letter hints of surprises to the wearer.

And he did, and seemed to hit the thing squarely. I knelt on the chair and craned over, while Jenkins still held the stick tightly at the point where the thing had struck.

"Get him?" I queried. "Where is it?" "That's it, sir," said Jenkins in an odd voice. "It ain't here."

"Why, dash it, I saw you strike the beast, right where you're holding that club."

"Mr. Lightnut, sir"—Jenkins spoke a little huskily and glanced around at me queerly—"will you look under the end of this stick and see if you see what I see?"

I climbed down and examined cautiously. "Why, by Jove, it's the little splinder!" I exclaimed, surprised.

"Exactly, sir; what's left," Jenkins took a deep breath. "Thank you, sir—it's a great relief," he sighed.

"Eh?" "I mean, sir, I'm glad I ain't the only one who thought he saw that other. It's some comfort."

Jenkins spoke gloomily. "Thought you saw?" I repeated. But Jenkins only shook his head as he gathered up the remains of the spider and consigned them to a cuspidor.

"You mean—say, what the devil do you mean?" I asked sharply. Jenkins straightened with air respectful but solemn.

"Mr. Lightnut, sir," he began gravely, "there's a party lectures on the street corner every night at nine on the fearful consequences of the drink habit, and passes around blank pledges to be signed. I'm going to get one first chance; and if you will accept it, sir—meaning no offense—I would be proud to get you one, too."

I stared at him aghast. "Oh, I say, now," I murmured faintly, "you don't think it was that, do you?"

Jenkins' face was eloquent enough. "I'm through, sir," he said sadly. "When it comes to seeing things like that—" He lifted his eyes. "No more for me, sir; my belief is, it's a warning—yes, sir, that's what, a warning."

I collapsed into a chair. "By Jove, Jenkins," I said, trying to go a feeble smile. "I never felt so fit for a corking stiff highball in my life—never!"

I took a screw on my glass and studied him curiously. "And I say, you know—better take one yourself!" I added.

CHAPTER III.

I Don the Pajamas. "By Jove, Jenkins," they fit like a dream!"

I twisted before the glass and surveyed the pajamas with much satisfaction. They looked jolly right from every point. Moreover, with all their easy looseness, there was not an inch too much. They had a comfortable, personal feel.

"Lucky thing they weren't made originally for some whale like Jack Billings—oh, Jenkins?" I commented musingly.

Behind his hand Jenkins indulged in what is vulgarly known as a snicker. "Mr. Billings, sir, he couldn't get one shoulder in 'em, much less a h't-leg," he chuckled. "They'd be in ribbons, sir!"

I yawned sleepily, and Jenkins instantly sobered to attention. He held his finger over the light switch as I punched a pillow and rolled over on the mattress.

"All right," I said; "push the jolly thing out." And with a click darkness fell about me.

"Good night, sir," came Jenkins' voice softly. "Night," I murmured faintly, and I was off.

the breeze was ripping and delicious, and the delicate silk of the pajamas flowed in little wavelets all the way from my heels to my neck.

I was just about dropping off, when I heard some one hurrying along the private hall leading from the back. Jenkins himself popped into the room.

"Did you ring, sir?" he inquired, and advanced quickly.

And then, before I could think about it to reply, he halted suddenly, almost pitching forward. Then, with a kind of wheezy howl, he sprang to the wall.

Next instant, I was blinking under the dazzling electrolux.

"Here, I say! Shut off that light!" I remonstrated, half blinded.

I heard a swift rush across the rugs, and the next thing I knew I was roughly jerked from out my chair; strong fingers clutched my throat, and I found myself glaring into a frightened but resolute face.

"Jen-Jenkins!" I tried to gasp, but only a gurgle came.

I was so taken unawares, I knew it must be some dashed dream. Perhaps another minute, and I would wake up. But he gripped me tighter and shook me like a rag.

"Say, who are you?" he hissed. "How did you get in here?"

And then, of course, I knew that he was crazy. Whether he was crazy in a dream or crazy with me awake, I couldn't guess. It made very little difference, anyhow, for I knew that in another minute I should be either dream dead or real dead; and dash me if I could see any odds worth toting for in either, you know.

But I don't belong to the athletic club quite for nothing, and have managed to pick up a few tricks, you know. So with the decision to chuck the dream theory, I shot my leg forward with a mix-up and twist that made Jenkins loosen his clutch and stagger backward.

"What's the matter with you?" I gasped, advancing toward him. "Are you trying to murder me?" But I was so hoarse, the only word that came out plainly was "murder."

Jenkins uttered a howl. "Help, Mr. Lightnut! Murder!"

"You old fool!" I cried, exasperated. "Come here!"

He was coming. He seized a light chair and swung it behind his head. Then he rushed me with a shout.

"Oh, Mr. Lightnut!" "Gone clear off his nut!" was my thought. As he swung the chair, I ducked low, and man and chair went crashing to the floor. But he was up again in a jiffy and dancing at me.

"Mr. Lightnut, sir, why don't you help me?"

"Help you—you jolly idiot!" I muttered indignantly. Then my voice raised: "I've a mind to kill you!"

With a yell, he made a kangaroo jump and swung at me again.

"He says he's going to kill me, Mr. Lightnut!" he panted as I dodged again. "Help me—wake up, sir!"

"Wake up? Wake up, indeed, when I had never been so devilish wide awake in all my life! I was sure now about that. I moved toward him cautiously."

"Stop your row!" I cried angrily; "you'll have somebody in. Think I want the police up here?"

With a glare at me, Jenkins darted past me to the bedroom I had just left. Its light switch clicked, and then back through the brightened doorway he sprang and dashed for a wall cabinet at the side. He began tugging at its little drawer. And suddenly I remembered the revolver there, an old forty-five from a friend in Denver—and loaded!

My spring to intercept him was quick, but not quick enough! Half-way to him I pulled up under the compelling argument of the long blue barrel pointed at my head.

"Here! Look out, you fool—it's loaded!" I warned, backing away to the window.

Jenkins advanced. "What have you done with him?" he panted hoarsely. "Where is he?"

"Where's who?" I asked savagely, for I was getting devilish tired of it all. But for the publicity, I should have yelled from the window.

"Where's Mr. Lightnut?" he demanded.

"Oh, he's all right." I decided to adopt that soothing tone that I had read somewhere was the proper caper with lunatics.

"I've just had enough of this, you fool!" I cried impatiently. "Here, take a good look at me!" I pushed my face closer. "Look at me, I tell you!"

By Jove, he shuddered! His eyes, wide distended with terror, rolled to the ceiling.

"I can't," he whispered; "I just can't—anything but that! Only, please—please don't kill me, too!"

"Kill you?" I said, frowning sternly as he gave a furtive glance. "I certainly will, if you don't take a good look at me!"

He gave a sort of despairing sigh and closed his eyes so tightly the lashes disappeared. "All right, then," he said sulkily; "you may kill me!"

The way with these lunatics, I thought. Next thing, he would be begging and insisting that I kill him. I motioned to the door of my guest-room and gave him a push.

"In there," I said, "and keep perfectly quiet."

And as he shot inside, I closed the door and locked it. I just had to take the chance of his hurling himself against the walls and furniture; I didn't believe he was so crazy he would undertake the six-story leap to the ground. Listening, I heard something like a sob. Then I caught my name.

"Poor Mr. Lightnut," came chokingly: "the kindest, gentlest master!" And then more sobs and gulps.

By Jove, under his insane delusion, the poor beggar was grieving for me; not thinking of himself at all, you know. I felt my eyes grow a bit moist, somehow, and all at once my heart went heavy. Thought how long poor old Jenkins had been with me—ever since I was out of college, you know—five years—and remembered how devilish faithful and attached he had always been. Poor old Jenkins! It was awful his going off this way! I recalled how he had taken to seeing things, earlier in the evening, and had made me see them, too, dash it! One thing I determined: whatever had to be done with him, he should have the finest of attention.

I knew that I ought to telephone to somebody or something, but dashed if I had any idea who or where. Oddly enough, not a soul seemed to have been roused by the pistol shot, but I saw by the little clock that it was close to three—the hour in a bachelor apartment house when everybody is ing to the operator. "I say, will you give me 'information?'"

A loud shout suddenly sounded from behind the closed door, and there came a frantic double-pounding of fists.

"Mr. Lightnut—Mr. Lightnut!" screamed Jenkins. "Oh, Mr. Lightnut, you're back—you're alive—I can hear your voice! This is Jenkins, Mr. Lightnut; yes, sir, Jenkins. They've got me locked in!"

I clapped the receiver on the hook and sprang to the door, unlocking it. Jenkins almost tumbled into my arms.

By Jove, for a second I hung in the wind, he acted so crazy still; at least, it seemed so just at first. The fellow threw his arm about my neck and laughed—laughed and cried, dash it—and just wringing my hands and carrying on—Oh, awful! And even when I got him into a chair, he just sat there laughing and crying like a jolly old silly, patting my hand, you know, and wiping his eyes, what time they were not devouring me.

"Has he gone, sir?" he gasped huskily. "Did he jump from the window?" But I waved all questions aside.

"After you've had some sleep," I insisted. "Then I'll tell you the whole jolly story." And I just got him to his room myself, despite his distress and protests over my attention.

"Thank you, sir, and good night," he said as I left him. And he murmured placidly, "I guess we're all right now."

But I was not so sure as to him, when I viewed the broken chair and scattered fragments of glass—ominous reminders of the scene through which I had passed. And so, though I threw the pistol on top of a bookcase, I spent the rest of the night upon the soft cushions of my big divan.

asleep, if they're going to sleep at all. I decided that the best thing to do first was to get into some clothes. And with this thought I was turning away, when it occurred to me to make an effort to see if poor Jenkins seemed more rational now or had gone to sleep.

I tapped upon the door. "Are you asleep?" I asked softly.

A howl of positive terror came back.

"I'm a-sleeping quiet," he cried, "but don't let me hear your voice again, or I'll jump right out of the window."

I shook my head sadly and tiptoed into my room, where I slipped hurriedly out of the pajamas and into some clothes; then back I went to the telephone. It was on my little writing-desk close to the door confining Jenkins.

I lifted the receiver with a sigh. "Hello, central," I began, responding with an after luncheon, or rather after breakfast, cigar.

Jenkins' head shook dubiously. "I just remember something blackish. My, sir, I didn't have time to notice nothing like clothes!"

His tone conveyed aggrieved protest. He went on:

"Just as I'm telling you, sir, I saw some one sitting there by the window and walked toward him, thinking it was you. Then, all of a sudden, I see his awful face—a scowling at me there in the moonlight!"

"And he was smoking, you say?" Jenkins sniffed indignantly. "Free and easy as a lord, sir! He held a long stick to his ugly mouth, and smoke was curling out of a little bowl near the end."

"Oh, opium pipe, eh?" "Likely, sir," agreed Jenkins; "but I never saw one."

WESTERN CANADA'S PROSPERITY

NOT A BOOM, BUT DUE TO NATURAL DEVELOPMENT.

One of the largest banks in Holland has been doing a big business in Western Canada, and Mr. W. Westerman, the President, on a recent visit into the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, expressed himself as being much impressed with present conditions and prospects, and was convinced that the great prosperity of the Dominion was not a boom, but merely the outcome of natural developments.

Not only has money been invested largely in Western Canada by the Holland Banks, but by those of Germany, France, as well as Great Britain. Not only are these countries contributing money, but they are also contributing people, hard headed, industrious farmers, who are helping to produce the two hundred million bushels of wheat and the three hundred million bushels of the other small grains that the Provinces of the West have harvested this season.

During the past fiscal year there came into Canada from the United States 133,710; from Austria Hungary 21,651; from Belgium 1,601; Holland 1,077; France 2,094; Germany 4,664; Sweden 2,394; Norway 1,692; and from all countries the immigration to Canada in that year was 354,237. From the United States and foreign countries the figures will be increased during the present year.

Most of these people have gone to the farms, and it is no far look to the time when the prophecy will be fulfilled of half a billion bushel crop of wheat in Western Canada. Advertisement.

THE RIGHT SOAP FOR BABY'S SKIN

In the care of baby's skin and hair, Cuticura Soap is the mother's favorite. Not only is it unrivaled in purity and refreshing fragrance, but its gentle emollient properties are usually sufficient to allay minor irritations, remove redness, roughness and chafing, soothe the sensitive conditions, and promote skin and hair health generally. Assisted by Cuticura Ointment, it is most valuable in the treatment of eczemas, rashes and other itching, burning infantile eruptions. Strength in Cheerfulness.

Wonderous is the strength of cheerfulness, altogether past calculation its powers of endurance. Efforts, to be permanently useful, must be uniformly joyous—a spirit all sunshine, grace, full from very gladness, beautiful because bright.—Carlyle.

MS. of Home, Sweet Home.
The original manuscript of "Home, Sweet Home," is said to have been buried in the grave with Miss Harry Harden of Athens, Ga. She was John Howard Payne's sweetheart, but refused to marry him in deference to her father's wishes. After she was separated from her lover she shut herself in the old family mansion, seeing none but a few members of the little church to which she belonged.—From the Independent.

By Way of Identifying Himself.
"Do you know who I am, sah? Does yo' organize me?" inquired a dilapidated looking young colored citizen, addressing old Brother Bulginback. "Well, sah, I a de fool gen'leman dat done 'loped wid yo' daughtah, Loolabelle, 'bout two weeks ago; and I kin prove it, spite-uh muh pussional 'pearance. And I a come back yuh today, sah, to intawm yo' dat if yo'll take her back and gimme a new suit o' clothes, all will be forgiven."—Kansas City Star.

Lived 86 Years in One House.
Mrs. Williams, widow of the Rev. Samuel Williams, pastor of the Congregational church in the village of Cripplestyle for forty years, has died in the house in which she was born and had lived all of her eighty-six years. During this long period she had not slept away from the house more than about six times.—London Daily Mail.

Matter of Diet.
"How do you tell the difference between a yacht and a sailboat?" said the girl with the inquiring mind. "By lookin' into the pantry," replied Captain Cleet. "If she carries plenty of refreshments and seegars, she's a yacht. If it's mostly 'n victuals she's a sailboat."—Washington Star.

Difference in Real Life.
The innate difference between real life and the stage is well illustrated by the fact that on the stage the people who sing "Auld Lang Syne," in a New Year's eve scene, do not forget the words.

Woman and Suffrage.
If a woman demands votes, offices and political equality with men, as among the Shakers an elder and elderess are of equal power—and among the Quakers—it must not be refused. It is very cheap wit that finds it so droll that woman should vote.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

True Brotherly Feeling.
We must repeat the often-repeated saying, that it is unworthy a religious man to view an irreligious one either with alarm or aversion, or with any other feeling than regret and hope and brotherly commiseration.—Carlyle.

Joy of Life.
To watch the corn grow, and the blossoms set; to draw hard breath over ploughshare or spade; to read, to think, to love, to hope, to pray—these are the things that make men happy; they have always had the power of doing this, they never will have power to do more. The world's prosperity or adversity depends upon our knowing and teaching these few things.—John Ruskin.

To Make Tires of Paper.
Experiments have recently been made in Europe looking to the utilization of paper in the manufacture of pneumatic tires, tests recently made having convinced the experimenters that paper has the strength of metal, the elasticity of rubber, and a cheapness that is to be found in neither of these materials: all important qualities.

What's a Friend?
Apropos of gratitude, a prominent politician gave the other day a very amusing definition of a friend. "A friend," he said, "is a man who takes your part against all your enemies, sticks to you through all your adversities, lends you his last dollar without security—and then, when fortune smiles on you at last, is content to take a back seat and keep out of the way."
